RUTSEK'S ASSISTANT CHARGED WITH FRAUD AND EMBEZZLEMENT.

Adelaide Foreigner Claims She Accepted $123 After She Knew Defunct Bank Was Insolvent.

PUNISHMENT FOR OFFENSE

Is Severe But Defense Does Not Expect Any Difficulty in Proving Quickly the Entire Innocence of the Well Known Young Lady Involved.

Miss Sadie Robinson, who was given power of attorney by Peter Rutsek. The missing banker, was this morning placed under arrest by Constable B. Rottler on a warrant issued from Magistrate Frank Miller's office on information of Joe Borzeli of Adelaide, who charged fraud and embezzlement. The information was made several days ago, but was not served until this morning. Bill in the sum of $300 was promptly furnished for a hearing next Wednesday.

It is understood that the action is brought under the Act of Assembly of 1888, which provides that any banker, broker or officer of any trust or savings institution, National, State or private bank, who shall take or receive money from depositors with the knowledge at the time that the institution is insolvent, shall be guilty of embezzlement, and shall be punished by a fine double the amount received and imprisonment from one to three years in the penitentiary.

It is alleged by the informant that Miss Robinson received $123 from him ten days after Peter Rutsek went away from town, for the purpose of forwarding it to his wife in Budapest, Hungary, and that the money was never forwarded.

Miss Robinson claims that the money received from the prosecutor was credited to the account of Peter Rutsek, in the same manner and in the same way as if he had been present and was conducting a regular banking business. During the time that Peter Rutsek was away and before bankruptcy proceedings were initiated, Miss Robinson held to the belief that her employer would return with sufficient funds to straighten out matters. The money she received during this time, it is claimed for her, are all accounted for upon the books, and there was nothing irregular or of a fraudulent character transacted.

Attorney S. R. Goldsmith this morning stated that there would be no difficulty in proving her position in the matter and that it was altogether likely that the indictment against her would be withdrawn before the day was over.

BROTHERS QUARREL.

Over Candy and One of Them Lands In Lockup Where He Weeps All Night.

With large tears running down his face and with eyes red from having wept many hours during the night, J. H. Bowell, an 11 year old boy, was before Burkes A. D. Solson this morning, being charged with having run away from his home at Dickerson Run.

The lad stated that he came to town with his father, James H. Bowell, a painter and paper hanger, and his brother, Charles Edgar Bowell. His father went into a pool room to have a game while he and his brother started out to take a walk over town. His brother bought some candy and they quarreled, James threatened to have his brother arrested for not giving him a piece of the candy, and Edgar, who is about a year younger, ran away. He then went to the Salvation Army headquarters, and after that the policeman got him.

With the officer he searched over town for his father and brother but could not find them. Officer Rottler this morning called Dickerson Run and found that the family had been residing there about a week, having moved from Somerset County. The boy was given his fare home and allowed to depart.

"OLD MAUD" IS AN AUNT.

Engineer Thomas Cowles Will Pull Whistle Extra Toot Today.

The population of town was increased this morning by the arrival of two pretty girl babies, one at the home of Frank Cuneo on East Murphy avenue and the other at the home of Thomas Cowles in the Morton building on North Pittsburg street.

It is the first baby to grace the home of the latter, and the joyful engineer, who has the distinction of wrestling with the intricacies of "Old Maud," is very proud and happy.

RAIN FELL LAST NIGHT.

And Will Be Beneficial to Crops in This Region.

Councilsville and vicinity was treated to a deluge of rain last night, the heaviest shower coming down at 3 o'clock this morning. The rain was badly needed in the rural districts and many farms near town profited by it. Reports from the mountain districts ate to the effect that a heavy rain had occurred there, but owing to the dryness of the ground it caused but a slight rise in the river.

Several of the streets of town were littered with debris this morning from the hill districts, but the damage was not so heavy as in times of former rains. There was little lightning with the downpour.

ROB COURT HOUSE.

Thieves Get Into Washington County Offices and Steal Stamps and Money.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 22.—(Special)—Washington county is being scoured for robbers who last night broke into the court house, looted desks, files and cabinets and left a trail of wreckage. A large quantity of stamps and a small amount of money were all the booty secured but the damage to the property and fixtures is heavy.

Sheriff J. C. Murphy was in his office until late at night, and it is believed the robbery was committed between midnight and dawn. Even the private apartments of the District Attorney and Sheriff did not escape the search of the robbers, the Recorders office being apparently the only one that was not entered.

All outside doors and locks and windows were intact this morning, and it is thought entrance was gained by means of skeleton keys. In the Treasurer's office, where the thieves evidently believed money was kept in some of the desks, Jimmies were employed. Many handsome pieces of mahogany were ruined. The authorities incline to the belief that a former "trust" at the county jail secured duplicate door keys while at work in the court house and used one of them in entering the building.

GLASS PLANT

To Be Erected at Point Marion by a Company of Local and Unontown Capitalists, Who Put Up $30,000.

Attorney Leo Smith of Unontown went to Point Marion yesterday morning to attend the meeting of the stockholders and incorporators of the Point Marion Window Glass Company, a newly organized and chartered glass manufacturing concern, for which he is solicitor.

This plant will be a well equipped and will be located in Springfield township not far from the town. The concern is chartered under Pennsylvania laws and is capitalized at $30,000, which is held in shares of $100 each by the citizens there, headed by Peter Guyaux. At the meeting the organization of the company and the election of officers for the first year was effected. The concern will make window glass only and will employ quite a large number of men. They expect to begin work immediately on the proposed plant and have it in operation in a short time.

MOVING OF MULES

And Horses Started Rumor That H. C. Frick Coke Company is to Fire Up All Ovens.

A rumor gained circulation all over town this morning that the Frick Coke Company had issued orders for the firing of every oven owned by it in the Connellsville and Lower Connellsville regions Monday. The officials at the Scotland offices stated that the report was untrue and that there was no foundation for it. The same number of ovens will be operated at the various plants now, as heretofore on a five day basis, but there will probably be no important changes.

The rumor arose from the fact that a large number of horses and mules are being transferred from various farms to others over the region.

PRETTY WOMEN SEEK MONEY.

Put Off Train at Smithton They Get Into Connellsburg Dead Broke.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS ACT

In Matter and Supply Funds to Take the Women to Their Homes in Martinsburg, W. Va.—Friend in McKeesport Caused All the Trouble.

Two very well dressed ladies, one perhaps 35 and the other about 23 years old, walked into the police station yesterday while a session of court was in progress and inquired if there was a Board of Charities in town. They were referred to the Chamber of Commerce, which has a committee to oversee that class of work and nothing more thought about it. It being presumed that they were two ladies representing some charitable institution.

Burgess Soltau was later astonished to learn that the well-dressed women were dead-broke and were seeking some source by which they could get to Martinsburg, W. Va. After hearing their stories they were given money to go to Unontown where the Commissioners advanced them sufficient funds to take them to their homes. They left last night on the Duquesne Limited and should be back with their friends today.

The women stated that they left Martinsburg for Pittsburgh, where they expected to secure a position, but were disappointed. They had used up all their money and expected to get some money from a friend at McKeesport. He had failed to make good. They paid their way from Pittsburgh to that place, but when their friend did not show up stayed on the train. The conductor came around for their tickets, and having none, they were put off the train at Smithton. At Smithton they received sufficient funds to come to Connellsville.

Here they made their last rally, and, although they were looked upon with some suspicion, owing to their elegant dress, they were treated kindly and investigation proved that they were not faking. No one had the heart to ask them their names, but it is a safe bet that any of the officers and citizens who helped them would recognize them if they ever saw them again.

The County Commissioners stated today that they had simply advanced the money to the two women, being convinced that they would return it as soon as they reached their homes. Satisfactory references were furnished them for this belief.

THOUSAND PEOPLE AT BIG PICNIC.

Union Sunday School Outing of Vanderbilts Attended by Great Crowd.

Special to The Courier.

VANDERBILT, Pa., Aug. 22.—The Union Sunday school picnic of the Vanderbilts Sunday schools on Thursday was one of the best and largest attended picnics of its kind ever held in the vicinity. From early morning until late in the afternoon the people came by wagons, autos and cars, until fully a thousand crowded the grove at Eagle school house. But so thoroughly had the committees arranged for their comfort that it was truly a case of "the more the merrier." People were there from Vanderbilts Liberty, Dawson, Star Junction, Connellsville and Uniontown.

The refreshment stand was well patronized and although the articles were sold at a low price, still a small profit accrued, which will be divided equally among all the three schools.

It was on the athletic field, however, that interest was centered for a major portion of the day. The following were the winners in the respective events which were pulled off.

Ball game, M. E. Sunday school; foot race, boys of 10 to 12 years, Lawrence Maust; hoop race, Hugh Hendren; potato race, Lena Collett; egg race, Maude Rosau; three-legged race, Louis Marotti and Wilford McLean; foot race, girls 10 to 12 years, Orpha Crainer; foot race, girls 13 to 14 years, Fred Wright; wheelbarrow race, Frank Reed; sack race, Abe Hahn.

Many families brought their suppers along and it was fully 7:30 before the last one had departed for home, leaving it a great time.

JOHNSTOWN MAYOR

Made Example of Alien Socialist Who Delivered Speech Against His Adopted Land.

"Although I am not a citizen, I represent many citizens, and I propose that the people shall have the right of free speech, if I have to rot in jail."

Thus dramatically spoke Thomas Kearney, Johnstown Socialist leader, in police court there yesterday, after Mayor Alex Wilson had found him guilty of obstructing Main street and sentenced him to pay a fine of $10 or spend 10 days in the city prison.

Immediately after the hearing, Attorney Sidney A. Schwartz of Titusville, who has been retained by the State Socialist Committee, and Attorney Robert E. Cresswell of Johnstown, both of whom are counsel for Kearney, made application to Superior Court Justice John B. Head of Greensburg for a writ of habeas corpus in order to test the constitutionality of General Ordinance No. 2, under which Kearney was convicted. The judge has the application under advisement.

THIS THE DATE

The Tenth Regiment Was Mustered Out in San Francisco After Campaign in the Philippines.

Tony nine years ago Company D of Connellsville, along with the Fighting Tenth Regiment, was mustered out in San Francisco after their bloody campaign in the Philippines. Many of the members of the Tenth today recalled the event.

One member, speaking of the event, related today in the breeze, balmy afternoon, when the tired soldiers, anxious to be off for their homes, came into the Golden Gate. All over Western Pennsylvania there was rejoicing that the soldier boys were home again and there were many anxious hearts awaiting them. But many came with boding forebodings of those who fell in battle.

Extensive improvements have been made on the school property throughout town. After a careful examination, the faulty skylight on the new South Side building which was resting on the ceiling of the room below was bridged across. A bell for the South Side building which was ordered bought by the School Board at its last meeting has been purchased and is due to arrive today. New chemical apparatus has been bought for the High School building, which has always been occupied by one or two grammar school rooms, will be occupied this year by the High School classes only, with the exception of the principal's office. Some of the rooms in the old Fourth Ward building will not be used this year, but it is not known as yet which will and which will not be occupied. All depends on the number of pupils. Every room in the Second Ward building, including the new addition, will be used.

Bids are now receiving by the School Board for the erection of the escape on the old Fourth Ward building. The present ones do not conform with the new State laws.

On Saturday before the opening of school a meeting of the teachers and the School Board directors will be held in the High School building for the purpose of signing contracts. Notices of the meeting are going out today.

Following are the High School teachers this year: U. G. Masters, Principal; C. B. Collier, Miss Lena Zutall, Miss Sarah Morrison, Miss Alice Neal and S. P. Ashe. The last two named are new teachers. Miss Neal will teach English while Mr. Ashe will teach mathematics.

BRYAN MAKES TARIFF SPEECH.

Explains Democratic Side of Question to Iowa Democracy.

OPENING GUN OF CAMPAIGN.

Eloquent Nebraskan Censures Republicans, With Their Long Tenure of Office, for Being So Tardy in Matter of Revision.

Dates Moines Ia, August 22.—Comparing the attitude of the two dominant parties on the tariff question Will H. Bryan, Democratic candidate for the presidency before a vast audience, fired the first gun in the campaign. He attacked the Republican promises of tariff revision and asked if the Democratic party was not justified when it included in its platform the declaration that "the people cannot safely intrust the execution of this important work to a party which is so deeply obligated to the highly protected interests as the Republican party."

"The whole aim of our party," he said, in summarizing, "is to procure justice in taxation. We believe that each individual should contribute to the support of the government in proportion to the benefits which he receives under the protection of the government. We believe that a revenue tariff approached gradually, according to the plan laid down in our platform, will equalize the burdens of taxation and that the administration of an income tax will make taxation still more equal. If the Republican party is to have the support of the people who find a preliminary profit as a private asset in their business in the legislature of the taxing power we ought to have the support of that large majority of people who produce the nation's wealth, protect the nation's flag in time of war and ask nothing from the government but even handed justice."

Mr. Bryan said in part:

No More, Catch Phrases.

"It will be noticed that the Republican party has abandoned the earlier arguments advanced in support of a high tariff. We hear no more of the 'infant industries' that must be specially cared for, and especially those upon which 'our feet' there is no longer any fear." There is no longer any fear that the foreigner pays the tariff and nothing about the home market." These catch phrases have had their day.

The Democratic party in its platforms and through its representatives in Congress has for years protested that the people are not justified in the execution of this important work to a party which is so deeply obligated to the highly protected interests as is the Republican party. The fat frying process has become familiar to the American people. Pressure has been brought to bear upon the protected interests every four years. It is difficult to overestimate the corrupting influence introduced into the political life of the nation by this partnership between the government and the favored industries."

High Tariff Corrupt Politics.

"And it is not justified that the people are not justified in the execution of this important work to a party which is so deeply obligated to the highly protected interests as is the Republican party." The fat frying process has become familiar to the American people. Pressure has been brought to bear upon the protected interests every four years. It is difficult to overestimate the corrupting influence introduced into the political life of the nation by this partnership between the government and the favored industries."

The plan has been to keep the taxpayers quiet by keeping them in the dark as to the operation of the law and then to concentrate the votes and influence of the tax enter in favor of a continuation of high tariff legislation. A few months ago a bill was introduced into the House of Representatives which it was assumed that those engaged in the production of the article would contribute liberally to keep up the tariff. It was also assumed that the employees would vote with their employer to keep from having their wages reduced and it was expected that the business men of the town would also vote for the tariff because of the business brought to the community by the protected industry.

Why the Antipathy Shown?

The Republican platform says that the tariff is intended for the American manufacturers, farmers and producers and especially for the wage earners. If the farmer and the wage earner are really the chief beneficiaries of the protective system will the Republican candidate for president say that the wage earner has contributed so little to the Republican campaign fund? Is he willing to publish a list of contributors on the 15th day of next October and allow the relative advantage of protection to the manufacturer, the farmer and the wage earner to be measured by the contributions received from each class?

Quoting the Republican platform on tariff revision Mr. Bryan asked what rule was to govern and also what rule obtained as to the framing of the proposed schedules. "Are the present leaders more honest than the ones who framed the revenue tariff?" he asked. Bryan "They are not. In fact the same men who are responsible for tariff extension during the last decade." If this new-born coal for revision were a hundred times greater than his nomination speech indicates what chance would the Republican candidate have of securing any real tariff reform at the hands of such Republicans as now represent that party in the Senate and those very men who represented it in the recent national convention?"

100 Per Cent for Steel Magnates. Illustrating how the present steel schedules operate to the great benefit of manufacturers, Mr. Bryan said: "The Homestead strike occurred after the Republican convention of 1892, but before the Republican candidate wrote his letter of acceptance. He could not ignore the strike, for it presented an object lesson which even a high tariff Republican could not fail to see. Sir M. Harcourt the candidate referred to the strike and said:

"I regret that all employers of labor are not just and considerate and that capital sometimes takes too large a share of the profits." "Too large a share of the profits?" Yes, more than that. The protected manufacturers have secured in many cases a tariff of more than twice the percentage paid by the unprivileged wage earners. The profits of the steel trust last year were just about equal to the entire amount paid in wages and the wages constituted less than 25 per cent of the total value of the product. According to this statement each workingman employed by the steel trust earned on an average not only the amount paid to him but 100 per cent above besides for his employer. All I may add, while those beneficiaries of protection have been pretending to make the tariff laws for the direct benefit of the employees those same employers have as a rule been kept close to the hunger line while many of the employers have become the possessors of the swollen fortunes which now fill the nation's morals as well as its business."

Steel Pat on Steel Schedules.

"And yet the Republican party was not willing to do this, since it is on the steel schedule should be touched and the Republican campaign committee will not dare to publish before the election the contributions which have made or will be made to the Republican campaign fund by the men most largely interested in the steel trust."

The Democratic platform not only demands a reduction of the tariff but plainly outlines the course to be pursued in securing the reduction. It begins by proposing that articles which come into competition with articles controlled by a trust be placed on the free list. What better place to begin. Now suppose the manufacturers who have been favored by legislation to insure them the public monopoly of their monopoly. What would the Republicans suggest? None whatever. These men are to be consulted about proposed changes and if the next Republican tariff is made like former Republican tariffs nothing will be done without the unanimous consent of the beneficiaries.

"What would be the effect of the terms proposed by the Democrats? Suppose this is done, what course to effect at some fixed date in the future, and if the Democrats pass a law putting upon the free list articles coming into competition with those controlled by a trust the trust will have until that date to dissolve if the trust considers the law too drastic it can avoid it by giving up its monopoly."

STEADILY ADDING TO OUTPUT

Dun's Review of Trade Sees Improvement in Steel Industry.

New York August 22—Dun's Weekly Review of Trade says today:

"Trade and industrial activities continue to expand, improvement being of conservative nature that promises permanency. There is little disposition to anticipate the future but current distribution is larger and mercantile collections are more prompt. There is some complaint among wholesale drygoods dealers that the big auction sales detracted from regular business but the general situation was greatly improved by the distribution of these accumulations and many tailors have returned to supplement their purchases. In manufacturing lines the iron and steel industry is steadily adding to output and shoe shops are receiving substantial contracts although producers are handicapped by the persistent strength of hides and leather."

A few special sales of pig iron have been made at concessions from former quotations, some merchant tailors seeking all the business offered but the general level of progress is not materially altered and there is a distinct improvement in demand. Most recorded transactions are for this year's delivery, each week bringing a little larger consumption at a still mill and some reduction of stocks in furnace yards."

Lady Betty Across the Water

Then arose a clamor. It appeared that they all wanted to make out the card—whatever it was I asked if I couldn't have one from each but it appeared that you couldn't do that. My cadet had spoken first, so he said that he would do it but the others could give me half buttons and chevrons and decorate fane for me instead.

"Do you like hops Lady Betty?" Inquired a perfect pair of a cadet, who looked like a cherub in uniform.

"Hops?" I wondered why he should ask me such an irrelevant question but I answered as intelligently as I could. "I don't know much about them. I think they're graceful but I don't like the smell."

He looked petrified. "The smell?"

"Yes. It makes one sleepy."

"I guess we won't give you much walking and if I wouldn't like to rest I said no, and he promptly pretended to be done up which I thought very silly. But of course I had to sit down by him on a rock with green moss velvet cushion.

"This is what I've been longing for all day," said he. "I have a heart and I was thinking about the cadets. But I agreed that it was beautiful."

"Yes it is," he answered looking at me. "I never saw anything so pretty. Say, Lady Betty you're an awful flirt!"

I did open my eyes at that. "A flirt!" I exclaimed. "I never had a chance to try being it."

"I guess you are born knowing I've been miserable all the afternoon. Couldn't you see my agony?"

"I didn't notice," said I.

"Ah, that's the trouble. You weren't thinking of me. Of course I oughtn't to have cared for those little boys—some of them were inches taller than he—but I couldn't help it. I kept saying inside. This is a sort of what I've got to suffer when she's staying with Katherine at the Moors. I don't know when I've been so unpopular with myself. I don't see how I'm going to get along unless you'll be also to me right now."

"I am nice to you," I said. "As nice as I know how to be."

"I could teach you to be a lot nicer. Say Lady Betty let me won't you?"

His eyes though they are such a pale blue, had that silly melting look in them that my cousin Loveland has when he talks to me. Let you do what?" I asked almost snapishly for a person sitting in such a lovely place.

"Teach you to like me. I fell all over myself in love with you the first minute I saw you."

"Day before yesterday!" I exclaimed. "What nonsense. You're poking fun at me. I don't believe in love at first sight—at least I don't think I do. Any how nobody could fall in love with me in that way."

"Couldn't they though? That's all you know about it, then. All Americans will fall in love with you like that, and it's just what I want to guard against. I want you to be exposed to me before you go to New York. Then I shall feel kind of safe."

"Dear me, are you really proposing and it isn't in joke?" I asked. "I do wish you wouldn't."

"Would I propose to Lady Betty Bulkeley in joke?" he reproached me. "The idea of proposing to any girl when you've only seen her three times!"

"What did I tell you about my friend in San Francisco? I was working slowly up to this, even then."

"Slowly."

"Yes, very slowly. I think I've shown a great deal of patience. American girls—the beauties I mean—are quite hurt if a fellow doesn't propose somewhere along in the first day or two. They think he can't appreciate their real worth and that he deserves what he gets if some other chap walks away with them. Now, I'm not going to sit still on my perch and see anything else walking off with you."

I couldn't help laughing. "I'll call for help if there's no danger," said I, "but I can't promise more than that I didn't come over to America to pick up a husband."

He looked at me rather queerly when I said that, almost as if he thought I had come for that express purpose and was trying to conceal it. But of course he couldn't be so horrid as to suppose such a thing really and I must have imagined the strange expression. If he only knew I came away so that another girl might be sure to get a husband and I'm not allowed to go back until he has been got!"

They're just growing around on blackberry bushes and strawberry patches for you to pick and choose said Potter and that's what worries me. I'm a wildly jealous fellow. I've got two months leave so as to be with you at Newport, and I tell you I shall see a bright, beautiful crimson if too many dudus come fooling around the shanty bay, won't you just play we're engaged anyhow and see how you like it?"

But now I was really cross and wouldn't hear a word more of such nonsense so I jumped up, and he had to scramble up too.

If you're really proposed—which I doubt said you must please understand that you've been formally refused. But I forgive you because you must have been chaffing and because it's my first proposal so it'll always I can't die without having had at least one. Now do be sensible and take me back or I shall have to find my way alone or else ask a strange cadet to pilot me."

That threat found a vulnerable spot and he was not half bad on the way home—perhaps no worse than the name of the walk allowed.

We met several couples—cadets and girls young officers and girls—some sitting or sitting down close together in out of the way places. But by and by we seemed to have passed beyond the inhabited zone. Then Potter asked me to wait at West Point in a little white thing of embroidered India muslin. Thompson made it after one of Mrs. and Mr. Mrs. Kay's gorgeous things. But when Sally had done my hair but she thinks heaven she doesn't know anything personally about that. When she made this remark I remembered what Sally had told me in confidence about Mrs. Mrs. Kay's life before she began to qualify for the tour abroad. But of course I did not make any allusion to the subject for fear it was a skeleton in her closet. And Sally says that well educated Chicago people think New York a one house place compared to their town which is really wonderful and most interesting as I shall find out if I see it. I wish I could but I suppose I shan't as I came over to visit Mrs. Mrs. Kay not to do sightseeing.

The second day after we came back from West Point as I went downstairs the first thing in the morning, I heard Mrs. Mrs. Kay at the telephone which is in a little room along a corridor off the fountain court.

The "hop" was in a great big room which the cadets use it's something of either I forget what and it was decorated with quantities of American flags. There were lots of girls—the youngest things. Hardly any of them could have been out but they were even more men counting officers and cadets at least two for each girl.

The card which my particular cadet had talked about making for me was bair in a new way. They had left Louise behind as there was no room for her) and fastened around my throat a lovely string of pearls she brought on purpose. I looked quite nice.

The card which my particular cadet had talked about making for me was success in obtaining business, and his luck in bringing his cases to a favorable conclusion soon became proverbial. In an incredibly short time he established a business second to none in the prosperous country town and his prospects were exceedingly bright.

He came by his political creed very naturally. His father was a so-called Democrat of the old school having imbued his political ideas in the atmosphere of Monticello near which he was born. Thomas Jefferson was the elder Kern's political ideal and he made a point of training his son in the same faith. Outside of his immediate home circle young Kern received little influence in his political directions for Howard county was overwhelmed by Republicans and a follower of any party was in a hopeless minority. Thus it was that the young lawyer had been nominated for governor and he also been the Democratic candidate for United States senator.

It is not by his political associates alone that Mr. Kern is held in high esteem. Men of all political creeds have learned to like him and to appreciate his striking worth. Although ever since his entry into political life he has been accounted an extreme party man he has never permitted himself even during the heat of a political campaign to indulge in personalities.

I am talking to a friend of mine who has just been moved back to his own apartment after not long over sprawling city, she explained. "Oh, things are much more indefatigable society woman and she does so hate being stuck in the city at this season. I've just been promising to run in and see her this afternoon and I'd like to take you if you'll go. She'll love to see you."

When I began to think I ought to let her know I was there, for one hates to be a burden. So I yelled at the top of my lungs that I was in the hall waiting to go to breakfast and I couldn't help hearing every word she said. However she didn't mind it but called to me to come into the telephone room.
